Dr. Andrea Fettermann

Scientific Field Service South-West (New England Biolabs GmbH)

"From academia to sales positions: why not?"

In academia you learn a wide range of interesting concepts and methodologies, but only little about the possibilities to make use of this knowledge in non-academic business opportunities. One of such opportunities is given by the work as a sales representative.

Dr. Andrea Fettermann decided for a field service position at New England Biolabs after finishing her PhD in Genetics and Molecular Biology. In her talk she will discuss her experience and the pros and cons of the life as a scientific field service.
